TREE PRUNING TO MAKE PARIS "CITY BEAUTIFUL"

At one of the recent meetings of the Paris Commercial Club, it was said by retiring Secretary, Mr. W. E. Hacker, that the statement had been made at his office by a person who has occasion to visit all of the Blue Grass towns, "that it looked like Paris was going to seed."

It would seem that such unfavorable comments as this would put us to thinking and looking about to ascertain what could be done with the least effort and expense to improve the general appearance of our town, thereby creating a more favorable impression on those who have occasion to visit us.

THE NEWS man has just made a little survey of Paris, as well as several other towns of the same class, and from observation, we believe just at this time of the year if all property owners would make a thorough inspection and study of their shade trees along streets and lawns they would find much needed attention to these trees in the way of pruning, cutting back, cleaning out all dead parts, and removing entirely all old worthless dead trees, which are not only an eye-sore to the public, but are detrimental to streets, pavements and sewers.

Now is the time of year to handle the tree question. This responsibility rests with the property owners, unless the neglect continues until the city authorities are forced to take some action in the matter.

Of course, the time will come a few months later for the city to get busy, and take care of some other matters in the way of repairing and leaning streets. We are sure this will have prompt attention when the time comes, but let property owners take advantage of the season and attend to trees right now.

A REAL SAMARITAN

Paris is blessed with a real true Good Samaritan in the person of Mrs. Harriet Minaker. Visiting Nurse for the Bourbon County Health and Welfare League. A few days ago Mrs. Minaker learned that William Brophy and six of his children, residing near Paris, were ill with pneumonia. She started in her auto to visit them, but found the road from the pike to the home in such bad condition that she could not reach the house. Parking her machine on the roadside, she walked a mile through the mud and slush to the home. There she found one of the children, a nine-year-old girl, seriously ill. She wrapped the child in a blanket and carried her in her arms to the auto, bringing her to the Massie Memorial Hospital in this city. The child was given medical attention, and is now on the road to recovery. Other members of the family are improving also.

MANUFACTURERS' LEAF STOCKS SHOW DECLINE

Burley leaf tobacco in the hands of manufacturers on January 1 decreased more than 3,000,000 pounds from the last report, made October 1, 1921, according to the Census Bureau's quarterly report of leaf tobacco in the hands of manufacturers made under the provisions of the Cantrill act. Burley on hand on January 1 of this year, however, was nearly 56,000,000 pounds more than on January 1 of last year. The aggregate of the chewing, smoking, snuff and export types in the hands of dealers January 1 was about 115,000,000 pounds more than on January 1 of last year, and about 14,000,000 pounds more than on October 1, 1921.

The dark tobacco of Kentucky and Tennessee in the hands of manufacturers January 1 also was less than on last October 1, but more than a year ago. The bright yellow leaf of the Virginia, Carolina and Georgia districts is held in greater quantities than either a year ago or last October. The aggregate of all kinds on hand on January 1, 1922, was 1,561,848,372 pounds, compared with 1,446,914,469 pounds January 1, 1922, and 1,457,439,732 pounds on October 1, 1921.
